

BEHAVIOR INTERVENTION

➤ SMALL GROUPS

➤ DISCUSSION CARDS

➤ RTI SUPPORT TOOL

➤ SEL ACTIVITIES

SOCIAL SKILL BUILDING KIT

Group Rules

Listen to others speak.	Share when it's your turn.
Be kind.	Respect others' privacy.

What about you?

I have had this happen before.	This hasn't happened to me before.
I'm not sure if this has happened to me before.	I worry that this will happen to me.

What are the different choices?

A really bad choice for this would be _____.	A poor choice for this would be _____.
An okay choice for this would be _____.	A great choice for this would be _____.

Let's talk about it.

What's the problem?	Who could help?
What can you control? What can you not control?	What emotions might a person have if this happens?

How would you handle it?

Talk it out.	Draw it out.
Act it out.	Write it out.

Sometimes I get so upset I can't tell others what I need.

What are the different choices?

A really bad choice for this would be _____.

A poor choice for this would be _____.

An okay choice for this would be _____.

A great choice for this would be _____.

I'm playing games on the computer. It's my favorite thing to do. My teacher tells me that it's time to stop playing.

I get to school and realize that I forgot my lunch. When I'm at school, I only eat food that I bring from home.

My teacher has told me to do my least favorite thing. I don't want to do it.

Feelings Choices

Let's talk about it.

What's the problem?

Who could help?

What can you control? What can you not control?

What emotions might a person have if this happens?

Writing is hard for me. My teacher wants me to write down my answers but my hand hurts so much.

Caroline Koehler

GROUP SUPPORT VISUALS

Group Rules

Listen to others speak.

Share when it's your turn.

Be kind.

Respect others' privacy.

What are the different choices?

A really bad choice for this would be _____.

A poor choice for this would be _____.

An okay choice for this would be _____.

A great choice for this would be _____.

Let's talk about it.

What's the problem?

Who could help?

What can you control? What can you not control?

What emotions might a person have if this happens?

I want people to think I'm interesting so they will be my friend. I make up stories, exaggerate, and lie so my life sounds exciting.

My teacher saying I'm interesting and writing them down on a worksheet. I have a copy of the worksheet but I'm not writing down the answers.

My teacher calls me names like buddy or sweetheart. That's not my name.

I'm playing a game with others, and I keep winning. I'm having great time. I'm celebrating loudly and laughing happily.

It's time to make a choice, and I don't know what I want. My teacher tells me I have to pick.

I'm working on something for me to do. I'm going well, but I'm angry. My teacher is nearby.

How would you handle it?

Talk it out.

Draw it out.

Act it out.

Write it out.

What about you?

I have had this happen before.

This hasn't happened to me before.

I'm not sure if this has happened to me before.

I worry that this will happen to me.

Behavior Intervention Log

Members:

Date	Topics discussed	Follow Up	Additional focus topics

Sometimes people tell jokes or use sarcasm. They laugh and say it's funny. I don't understand what's funny.

The lunchroom is so noisy. Sometimes I can't focus on eating.

The teacher is writing notes on the board. I'm supposed to copy the words but I can't write fast enough to keep up.

Sometimes the teacher just talks and there aren't any pictures or words on the board.

When I get upset, I sometimes do the same thing over and over. People tell me to stop.

When I'm finishing papers I'm supposed to put them in folders. It's hard for me to fit the papers to fit. I just put the papers on my desk.

When people ask me questions, I have to think about the words to say before I can answer. Sometimes I don't answer.

A student next to me dropped their supplies. All of their pens, markers, glue, and scissors spilled on the floor.

I like working by myself or with a teacher, but my teacher says I have to work with the other students.

Adults show me how to do something one way. They think I will remember so I can do it alone. I need someone to show me several times before I can do it by myself.

There's a change in the day's schedule. I like my teacher to warn me when this happens but no one told me.

I use a computer to write my answers but the computer isn't working right now.

Caroline Koehler

62 DISCUSSION CARDS

A group of kids and I are playing a game. They told me the rules. I've followed the rules, but I keep losing. I start cheating to try to win.

Other kids in my class give hi-5s, hold hands, or hug. I don't like to be touched. One of the kids in my class pats me on the back.

It's storming outside. I'm afraid of bad weather. My family knows this but no one in class does. I'm getting really scared.

Caroline Koehler